We are committed to providing incontinence management options that enhance dignity and quality of life.

I N S P I R A T I O N S

Each Medline disposable incontinence management product was inspired by a specific need or goal – for example, maintaining a free and active lifestyle while incontinent. Medline is proud to offer discreet and breathable MoliCare® Premium Air Active Briefs and Protection Plus® underwear, among other products, to meet this specific goal.

Medline's Pressure Ulcer Prevention Program

It is estimated that 2.5 million patients are treated each year in U.S. acute-care facilities for pressure ulcers.² Incidence rates vary by clinical settings, ranging from 0.4 percent to 38 percent in acute care and 2.2 percent to 23.9 percent in long-term care.^{2,3} In FY2007, there were 257,412 reported cases of Medicare patients with pressure ulcers as a secondary diagnosis.⁴ The additional average charge for the hospital stay (per case) was $43,180. It is estimated that 60,000 patients die each year as a result of pressure ulcer complications.⁴

The main challenges to having an effective pressure ulcer prevention program are lack of resources, lack of staff education, behavioral challenges and lack of patient and family education. Medline's comprehensive Pressure Ulcer Prevention Program offers solutions to these challenges and promotes the reduction of pressure ulcers with clinical and educational resources, assessment tools and a product line designed to work along with your existing program.

Education and training

The Pressure Ulcer Prevention Program includes self-paced workbooks for nurses and nursing assistants plus an instructor's manual to assist the course administrator. There are also pamphlets to educate patients and their families and a rewards program to acknowledge participants who successfully complete the program. You'll also receive an administrative brochure and cost tracker CD to determine pressure ulcer prevalence and incidence and compare the cost of implementing a pressure ulcer prevention program versus treating a pressure ulcer.

PRESSURE ULCER PREVENTION PROGRAM

The product bundle

Ultrisorbs® AP drypad

ONE PAD for healthy skin. The innovative backsheet on Ultrisorbs AP allows air to flow through the pad while still acting as a barrier to moisture. The result is exceptional skin dryness and comfort.

ONE PAD for lower cost. Ultrisorbs AP are so strong and absorbent that they eliminate the need for multiple pads. They also reduce the need for draw sheets, linens or reusable underpads. The result is a dramatically lower cost.

ONE PAD for easier care. Ultrisorbs AP can be used on both standard beds and air support therapy beds.

Restore® adult briefs

The Restore/Remedy brief is breathable for skin health and contains Remedy Skin Repair Cream in its core to enhance moisture management.

Medline Remedy® products

The Remedy family of products cleanses with phospholipids rather than with soaps or surfactants to help restore the natural oils on the skin. Remedy products also nourish the skin with Olivamine® and natural oils and feature blends of sophisticated silicones to create long-lasting, semi-occlusive barriers. All products are easy to apply and remove.

Medline Supra DPS alternating pressure & low air loss mattress

These powered, self-adjusting mattresses with multiple therapy settings feature advanced pressure sensor technology. They are topped with a low-friction, anti-shear, all-way-stretch cover.

Program support

Medline offers complete Pressure Ulcer Prevention Program support from the very beginning. We'll partner with you to implement the program in your facility and help you educate and train your staff. We will also help you track your success in reducing facility-acquired pressure ulcers.

Compass Fit Right Program

Now more than ever, it's crucial that clinicians evaluate their incontinence management programs in order to comply with CMS Tag F315 – and to understand how residents are impacted by incorrect product usage.

Incontinence management isn't a "one-size-fits-all" issue. Residents aren't all the same size. The varying degrees of incontinence mean that they won't all have the same needs in terms of absorbency and leakage protection. Level of continence, skin condition, mobility and circulation can dictate whether residents would benefit from including nourishing skin care products in their care plans.

It's a lot to think about, and it can be confusing. That's why Medline developed the Compass Fit Right Program. With this comprehensive system of educational tools, best-practice protocols and clinical aids, you can:

- Select the right product based on type of incontinence
- Help your staff promote normal bladder function
- Meet standards of practice
- Improve care outcomes
- Manage costs and promote proper product utilization
- Be survey-ready at all times

The Survey Readiness: Tag F315 box

A key component of the Compass Fit Right Program is the Survey Readiness: Tag F315 box. This convenient package comes to you full of resources to help you and your staff take the guesswork out of developing an effective incontinence management program at your facility.

FIT RIGHT PROGRAM

A custom cost analysis

We know you want to do what's best for your residents – and we know that cost is a concern. To help you provide ideal care and contain costs, Medline will partner with you to create a custom cost analysis (a realistic budget based on your needs).

Our team of experts will analyze your facility's current incontinence product usage and compare it to industry usage benchmarks. We'll then create projected patient-per-day costs based on your facility's needs.

Follow-up care

Once an incontinence management plan is in place, Medline helps guarantee it's a success!

This is done by:

- Developing formulary and par levels
- Implementing a product selection protocol
- Providing a disposable incontinence product identification system
- Implementing a product distribution protocol
- Providing on-site clinical and sales support

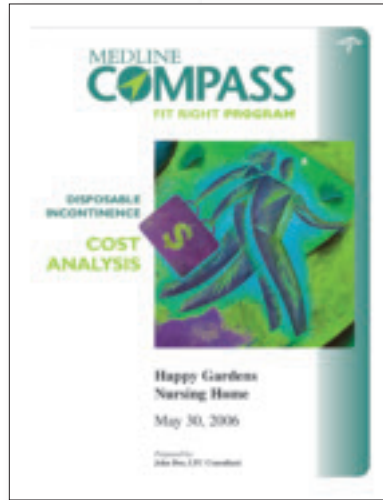

Medline will also generate automated reports and continue to monitor your product utilization costs in light of your goals. Based on these reports, possible recommendations and interventions to lower costs will be presented to you.

Financial programs

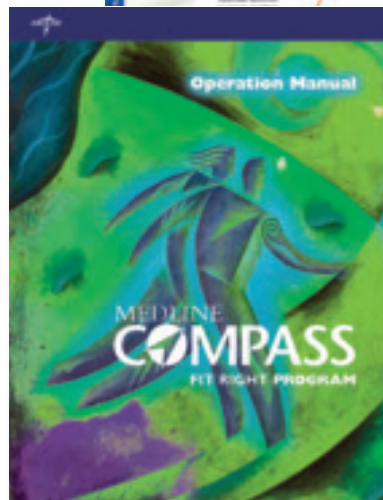

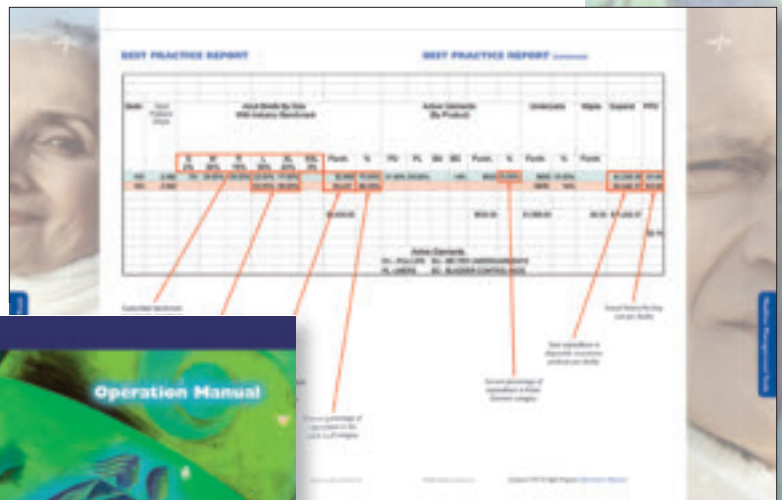

Budgeting for a successful incontinence management program can cause a strain on facilities. To that end, Medline offers:

- A consignment program to improve cash flow
- Extended credit terms
- A leasing program for capital goods
- A rebate program for guaranteed savings

Medline Remedy® Skin Care

Nourish and protect the skin

Remedy skin care products go beyond cleansing, moisturizing and protecting – they literally feed the skin. The secret is Remedy's proprietary blend of antioxidants, amino acids, vitamins (B₃, and B₆) and methylsulfonylethane (MSM).

Instead of using surfactant-based formulations – which can strip the skin of its natural oils – Remedy cleansers contain phospholipids, which help clean and remove odors while retaining the skin's moisture.

Remedy products also contain natural oils, such as olive oil, to provide essential fatty acids to the skin.

Disposable Absorbent Product Identification System

No two individuals experience incontinence in exactly the same way – so why should they all use the same incontinence management product?

Guidelines from the Centers for Medicare & Medicaid Services (CMS) require individualized care plans for each incontinent resident. Concerns about dignity and privacy mean these plans need to be discreet.

Shown below is an example of an easy, discreet system for selecting and distributing appropriate incontinence management products. The system uses a variety of stickers to match products to residents. These stickers can be placed outside the door to the resident's room, inside the room or in a closet. A legend indicating the product each sticker represents can be kept at the nursing station.

In this system, a sticker with a blue fish on it designates a large-sized brief. All employees – delivery staff, nurses and nursing assistants – should be able to identify the blue fish and know which product it represents.

Step-by-step instructions for use

The product identification system (below) is designed to promote product selection, fit and comfort.

Step 1: Identify resident's continence categories by using MDS 2.0 definition of continence self-control (section H.1)

Step 2: Assess resident's status regarding mobility, contractures, chronic diarrhea, combative behavior and size

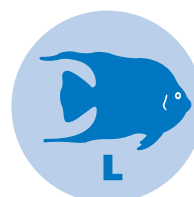

Step 3: Identify the proper product type using the decision tree for disposable incontinence products

Step 4: Measure the resident and identify proper size using the sizing guide or matrix

Step 5: Select sticker with symbol representing product and size

Step 6: Place sticker next to resident's nametag or designated location

Step 7: Instruct staff to use proper product and size for each resident

Technologically ADVANCED

Medline's Ultrasorb[®] AP DryPads are the technological breakthrough your facility – and your patients – have been waiting for. Ultrasorb[®] AP's innovative design helps keep skin incredibly dry. The backsheet allows air to flow through the pad while simultaneously acting as a barrier to moisture. And they're so strong and absorbent that they can reduce the need for linens and reusable underpads. Ultrasorb[®] AP are perfect for use on both standard and air-support therapy beds.

The technology built into each Ultrasorb[®] AP is great, but what that technology accomplishes – helping to keep skin drier – is surely what you and your patients will love most.
